I am part of the solution

To be honest, I wasn't sure what the public affairs mission meant when I first came to Missouri State University. I learned it's about being a good citizen. It's about helping the community become better. It's about getting along with people from all different cultures. It's about becoming a leader with strong ethics. The public affairs mission is everywhere, from what our professors teach us to the special events held on campus. For me, it's about helping to make a difference.
